

Server.py

```
import socket
```

```
Create socket
```

```
server_socket = socket.socket(socket.AF_INET, socket.SOCK_STREAM)
```

```
Bind to IP and port
```

```
host = '0.0.0.0'
```

```
port = 5001
```

```
server_socket.bind((host, port))
```

```
Listen for connections
```

```
server_socket.listen(1)
```

```
print("Server is waiting for connection...")
```

```
conn, addr = server_socket.accept()
```

```
print("Connected to:", addr)
```

```
Receive file name
```

```
filename = conn.recv(1024).decode()
```

```
Open file and send data
```

```
with open(filename, 'rb') as f:
```

```
    data = f.read()
```

```
    conn.sendall(data)
```

```
print("File sent successfully")
```

```
conn.close()
```

```
server_socket.close()
```

client.py

```
import socket
```

```
Create socket
```

```
client_socket = socket.socket(socket.AF_INET, socket.SOCK_STREAM)
```

```
Connect to server
```

```
server_ip = '127.0.0.1' # Change if server is remote
```

```
port = 5001
```

```
client_socket.connect((server_ip, port))
```

```
Request file
```

```
filename = input("Enter file name to receive: ")
```

```
client_socket.send(filename.encode())
```

```
Receive file data
```

```
data = client_socket.recv(1024)
```

```
Save received file
```

```
with open("received_" + filename, 'wb') as f:
```

```
    f.write(data)
```

```
print("File received successfully")
```

```
client_socket.close()
```